ISSUED WEEKLY.

R. C. WALKER, Publisher.

Crittenden's mineral interests are logging.

Co-operative Alliance stores are to be started in Kentucky.

No fire at Princeton this week, but the week is only half gone.

Brazil will appropriate $550,000 to make a display at the World's Fair.

Louisville Democrats will hold their primary election by secret ballot.

After spending the summer at Bar Harbor, Mr. Blaine has returned to Washington.

The cases to the constitutionality of the McKinley bill will be before the Supreme court November 9.

Thos. H. Kelly, cashier of a New Orleans house, is a defaulter to the amount of $20,000. He bought lottery tickets too extensively.

Iowa, Ohio, New York and Massachusetts elect Governors next Tuesday. Thorough canvasses have been made by both parties in each of these States.

Judge Russell, of the Eighteenth Judicial District, holds to the old panel of sixteen grand jurors, claiming that it will take a legislative enactment to put section 2 of the new constitution into effect.

The Farmer's Alliance is arranging to have a committee at Frankfort during the session of the legislature "to do all in its power to promote the interests of labor as affected by the actions of that body."

Benton has been engaged in a whisky fight somewhat similar to the one so familiar in Marion. The town trustees voted in favor of granting saloon licenses, but the County Judge refuses to grant them.

Crittenden and Caldwell counties are playing a close game for the lead in population. In 1880 Crittenden had 11,688 and Caldwell 11,282. In 1890 Caldwell had forged a little ahead of us and had 13,186 to our 13,119.

The United States and Chili are out of humor with each other. The attack on American sailors at Valparaiso is pronounced an insult, and our government has instructed Minister Egan to take the necessary steps to secure proper reparation.

Walter Evans and his co-constitution bombardiers argued their case before Judge Montfort of the Franklin Circuit Court Monday, and the court reserved its decision. The Judge before whom the case was argued was opposed to the new constitution. Notoriety is all Evans and his co-laborers will get, and that will not be of an enviable character.

Governor Buckner was asked to offer a reward for John Imboden, who killed the negro in this county but he refused. Since Governor Brown went into office the request was renewed, and the result is the offering of a $500 reward, notice of which is published in another column. Gov. Brown is right and it is to be hoped that this may bring the accused to a fair trial. The killing and subsequent escape of the man who did the deed is not that character of affairs which adds to the good name of the county.

Governor Brown has been strongly petitioned to pardon Hum Clay, who is serving a ten years' sentence in the penitentiary for forging, repeatedly, his grandfather's name. The Governor refuses to interfere with the demands of justice in giving his reasons therefor very forcibly clings to the doctrine of the good book which says: "Where much is given, much is required." The chief executive thus states the case; "Clay is a young man of fine education, reared in luxury, and a member of a most worthy and influential family.

The safety of society justly demands more from one of Clay's life environments than from one of whose heritage was poverty and ignorance. Society needs to have this truth impressed upon it daily. Hardly a day passes without some poor wretch, born in poverty, reared in ignorance and rags, is rushed off to the workhouse, jail or penitentiary to propitiate the cries of some violated law, while we all applaud and cry, well done. Change the principal actor in the tragedy, let him be educated, surrounded with wealth, and living in luxury; bring him before the bar of justice, and he is guilty ever so plain, we are all sympathetic, ready to forget and forgive; anxious to have the demands of the law go unheeded and with bold hand sign petitions or his pardon. This practice is too common, we forget that the wealthy and educated owe more to society than those whose opportunities are fewer and further between; we forget that where "much is given much is required," and it is a good sermon that Governor Brown preached when he said to Hum Clay: "Society demands more from you than from one of whose heritage was poverty and ignorance."

A congressional bee is said to be buzzing in the bonnet of Dr. Graham, who addressed the people at Marion Tuesday. He claims to be a non party man, and the tone of his speech was: "Vote for a non-party," hence the logical conclusion is, vote for Dr. Graham. If the good doctor don't succeed in a Congressional fight better than he did in a race for the State Senate last August, he will have to lighten his years beyond the allotted three-score and ten before he gets to Congress to vote for letting the tariff remain as it is. By the way, it occurs to us that his position on the tariff is not in conformity with the principles of the Alliance which demands a tariff for revenue only and to be laid upon the luxuries instead of upon tin, wool, woolen goods, etc. In telling the farmers to ignore the tariff question and to permit no one to discuss it in their presence, he certainly is leading them away from one of the main features in their declarations of principles.

Injured by Politics.

Mr. W. H. Travis has been elected by the county Alliance as delegate to represent the county at the State meeting, which convenes at Elizabethtown in November. Mr. Travis is said to be a straight-out third party man. "Has the Alliance gone into the third party?" is a question we propounded to a prominent member of the order, after hearing that the third party man had been chosen delegate. "Not by any means," was the reply. But the third party folks are trying to run our Union. We use to have 15 or 17 Sub-unions in the county, and now at a county meeting no more than seven are ever represented and on some occasions there were but five. The running of politics into the order has caused this decline, and injured us. Unless it is stopped the order that promises good to the farmer will continue to dwindle down.

Alliance Notes.

The Farmers Alliance of Indiana demands State and National Prohibition and Women's Suffrage.

Stockholders of the Mississippi Alliance exchange, are investigating the charge that the funds of the Exchange are short $10,000. Hon. L. F. Bobb, a member of the Alliance, declared that all the Alliance enterprises, from State Exchange to co-operative stores, had proven frauds and failures.

The Kansas Alliance do nothing by halves. It has gone into partnership with the National Union Company, of New York, and will run co-operative stores all over the State.

By the explosion of a boiler in Louisville Monday, one life was lost and $400,000 worth of property was destroyed.

The Republican Club of Indianapolis refuses to endorse Harrison avowing allegiance to Greaham.

Livingston County Court of claims met on the first Monday and was in session two days. Both the County Judge and attorney were allowed $450. An order was made to send all paupers to the poor-house that was able to be moved there. Fifteen cents on each hundred dollars worth of property was levied for bridge purposes, and 12 cents was levied to meet the deficiency caused by the reduction of the pole from one dollar to fifty cents.

Henry Slayden, and Wallis Thompson have moved to Lola.

TULU.

Corn gathering is the order of the day. The crack of the whip, the rattle of the wagons and the roar of the corn-husker can be heard from early morn 'till midnight.

This is a great neighborhood with many good people in it.

A. J. Bennett, Daniel and James Stone are visiting Congressman W. J. Stone this week. They will also take in the penitentiary.

W. P. Crider is as happy as Mr. Grover Cleveland, as he has a fine girl baby at his house.

The river is so low that the ferryman has to haul water to run his boat with.

George H. Crider is going to move the Hardware store from this place to Marion. Tolu is too small for George. This place needs a hardware store, who will take his place?

Walt. Clemens, the corpulent man and Tom Cochran and Will Clement, the Tulu athletes, are busy measuring calves; sugar and nails, and telling jokes to the boys.

We have often wondered what use a single man has for a cooking stove or a keg of sorghum. Now, it is a notorious fact that some of our young men have both.

R. A. Moore, the druggist, has been on the sick list for several days.

Several drummers are in our midst to-night.

Geo. Belt, late of the firm of Beard & Belt is the happiest man in Crittenden county. A new girl at his house, which he says is so smart that it does not even ask its father advice about anything.

The Ark belong to the Cincinnati Cooperage Co., had at last rested on the top of the river bottom; no dove is necessary to find dry land.

W. J. Beard is headquarters for cheap groceries; high prices knocked out on the first round.

BLACKWELL LODGE, NO. 57.

Address Delivered by a Member of the Knights of Pythias at a Recent Meeting.

At the last regular meeting of the above order the following address was given by one of its members, in response to a call for an address on "The Good of the Order."

"The good of the order of Knights of Pythias has been very near my heart since first I crossed its threshold, and learned under its mystic rites the value of its tenets.

Since time began man in some way has been opposed to man in every walk of human life; and strife among the brothers of one common father has marked the course of human existence from the time that Cain, with jealous rage looked upon his younger brother. This opposition has been the direct cause of all the misdeeds in the calendar of crime, aggravating and enlarging until streams of tears and rivulets of blood have flowed, found from the disruptions of bitter hate.

This opposition was included in the sins of our first parents, and has been visited upon their children from generation to generation down to the present time. At times it has seemed on the eve of over throwing the nations of the earth, and burying them under its weight. Yet man formed in the image of his Maker has succeeded in stemming the almost irresistible tide of fate, and often when the clouds have gathered into the blackness of despair; and the billows of adversity have rolled mountain high, he has piloted the frail bark of his existence into the harbor of peace, guided by the flaming beacons of Friendship, Charity and Benevolence.

When the inhabitants of this ill-fated sphere, suspended as it is between the blissful realm and future abode of the blessed; and the dark and unfathomable future of those who have disobeyed the laws of the Alliance, were but few compared with the almost innumerable host that now people the people of the earth's surface, the necessity for banding themselves together for mutual protection and reciprocal advantages, in other words, for the practice of "fraternity," became obviously necessary.

Since the ties of common brotherhood proved insufficient to unite the human race in bonds of friendship, necessary organizations sprung up, and primal man, assembled to the tribal summons; his castle hall was beneath the wide-spread branches of some giant of the forest, and there in some crude form he swore by the holiest of known symbols to practice the tenets that govern our organization at the present time. Out of this primitive organization slowly, but surely grew the government under which we the knights of the nineteenth century have the glorious privilege of living; but as slowly and surely grew the population of the earth, until the organized bands had grown to such enormous proportions that each occupied almost a continent and constituted a nation. It was then that the great Law Giver seeing the necessity for closer union bade men assemble in social organization.

Times' mighty wheel revolves, and the little band of twelve, have multiplied until Christianity no longer restricted to the valley of its birth, where the sweet waters of the Jordan sparkled in the sunshine of hope, has multiplied and spread with its tenets of Friendship, Charity and Benevolence until the known world re-echoes to its odes and anthems, and countless steeples mark the castle halls where fraternity and brotherly love are taught and practiced. And yet, with the lapse of four thousand years, with man's efforts striving to accomplish its abolition, with christianity and its noble examples of consecration and martyrdom extended over the known world; strife and dissension still exist. Two sons of the same father, have, when curly-headed boys, said "Our Father" at their mother's knee; who sailed their tiny boats on the same stream, have attended the Sunday school at the same white church on the hill, and sat at the same fireside on long winter evenings, while the chapter was read from the old family bible. Suddenly they tear their brotherly relations asunder and one dons the blue uniform, while the other takes the gray, and they enter mortal combat opposed.

It was in such scenes as these that our noble order was born to rear its head to the proud position it now holds. "Twas the music of the thunder of musketry and cannon, while our fair land was deluged in the blood of her noblest sons that the idea of our noble order was conceived, and in a little band of chosen friends its principles had their birth. Little did he dream when first their organ was called this little band together, that but little more than a quarter of a century would elapse ere from North, East, South and West, thousands of brave and cautious knights, bearing aloft the glorious banner of our cause, would be whispering the immortal name of Rathbourn.

This noble man, little knowing the benefits he would confer on posterity, gathered first a few friends and then a mystic chain of three great links about them. In casting about for a name the beautiful story of Damon and Pythias was suggested as worthy of emulation; and what better name could be given to an organization whose friendship is supposed to be as enduring as the heavens, than the example of the heroes of old whose deeds are so thoroughly stamped upon the minds of every true and loyal knight, that the hills will crumble and fall ere it is erased. I need not repeat the beautiful story, though old it is ever new, suffice to say, that if the friendship which bound Pythias to Damon existed in the heart of every knight who has espoused his cause, this order would to day do more for the binding of the human race together in fraternal love, than any effort set forth by man since sin came into the world; and our nation would be more securely bound in brotherly love, than our fair Union is bound with her ribs of steel. Then beautiful indeed would this world be when fraternal love held all men bound, and then could we guide the steps of trusting friends to goodness and to truth; casting out every grudge from our hearts, while our spotless garments honor our noble order. Then could we clear away from our breasts the storms and darkness of wrath and tumult, while the gleam of the calm blue heaven of fraternal love would shine soft and pure into our souls.

Then should we hate all that hinders goodness and purity. Then hand in hand and of brothers in reality as well as name might we recede the dark river with love to all and malice toward none.

Burned at the Stake.

Queen City, Tex., Oct. 26.—The negro, Green Lee, who, on Saturday murdered the family of Farmer Lowe, seven miles west of Queen City, was arrested last night near Kildare and hurried to jail at Linden. A crowd appeared at the jail at 5 o'clock this morning and demanded the key from the Sheriff's wife, who delivered it to them. The party took Green from the jail and locked the door and delivered the keys back to Mrs. Lanier, the Sheriff's wife, the Sheriff being absent with a posse hunting the negro.

They took Green to the scene of the tragedy and turned him over to the husband of the murdered woman, who obtained a full confession from him. Green acknowledged that he did the deed for the money, $600, and killed the family to avoid detection. He at first implicated three other negroes, but finally said no one sided him, but another negro shared in the gain. The last mentioned negro is in custody awaiting further developments. All day men from the adjoining counties, as well as from parts of this county, continued to arrive at Mr. Lowe's farm.

At 2:30 o'clock a trace-chain was placed about Green's neck, and with this he was fastened to a persimmon

SHOCKING ACCIDENT.

PREMATURE EXPLOSION OF DYNAMITE AT A ROCK QUARY.

J. B. McKinley, R. W. Perkins, Charles Chitwood the Victims—McKinley's Wounds Thought to Be Fatal.

At the rock quarry on the O. V. railroad, near Nunn's Switch in this county, Tuesday evening, the premature explosion of a dynamite blast seriously wounded J. B. McKinley, R. W. Perkins and Chas. Chitwood, three men who were engaged in getting out rock for the railroad. McKinley's wounds are of the most serious nature, and his recovery is doubtful. The three had a double blast about ready to discharge. A hole seven feet deep contained ten sticks of dynamite and was ready for the concussion that was to discharge it; another hole, near by, was receiving the last stick of dynamite, which refused to slide to its place easily; one of the men took an iron rod and slightly pushed the dynamite to force it to the proper place, in the twinkling of an eye there was a tremendous explosion of both blasts, and the three men were hurled to the ground and into the air with tremendous force, while pieces of the rock, small and large, flew in every direction.

When assistance reached the men it was found that McKinley's face was bruised and mashed in a terrible manner; small pieces of stone and sand was ground into his neck and face, making great holes in the flesh. Both of his eyes were destroyed, and his shoulder bruised. Chitwood was hurled some eight or ten feet into the air and fell on a pile of rock—the fall seriously injured his back; his eyes were badly injured and his face bruised. Perkins, the boss, who was nearest the dynamite when the explosion occurred, was hurled away, and a long gash cut through the scalp to the bone on the back of the head, and his back was injured.

Dr. Swope, the road physician, reached the sufferers as soon as possible, and dressed the wounds. McKinley and Perkins were taken to their homes near by, and Chitwood was sent to the hospital at Paducah.

ORGANIZED.

The A. O. U. W. Begins a Promising Career in Marion.

Monday night Marion Lodge No. 60, Ancient Order of United Workmen, was organized at this place. For several days Mr. C. C. Genuing has been in Marion working up an interest in the order and the fruits of his labor were harvested Monday night in the shape of a lodge composed of fine material—such as will carry out the teachings of the order in a way that will benefit and bless its membership and these dependent upon it. Messrs John A. Lyne, Chas. J. Hurth, Recorder; Past Master Workmen, A. R. Buchholz, Henry Hurry, and F. E. Kripke, of Keystone Lodge, Henderson, Ky., came over and assisted in the organization of the new lodge. The following is a list of the charter members and officers of the lodge: H. F. Ray, Master Workman; J. P. Pierce, Past Master Workman; W. G. Hammond, Recorder; J. E. Brawner, Financier; A. J. Duval, Receiver; S. R. Adams, Guide; A. Wilborn, I. G.; John Grissom, O. W.; Sam Hurst, Overseer; L. S. Leffel, Foreman; J. W. Johnson, H. B. Williams, E. M. McFee, W. D. Wallingford, P. C. Stephens, Ben Mayer, Dr. J. H. Clark, Medical Examiner; C. E. Doss, G. F. Jennings, J. W. Skelton, N. B. Eldings, S. C. Haynes, A. M. Straub, R. M. Wilborn. The object in brief of the order is thus set forth: "The Ancient Order of United Workmen, more commonly known as the A. O. U. W., is a Fraternal Benevolent Association whose mission is to minister to the sick, relieve the destitute, and care for the widows and orphans of its members."

Negro Killed Near Morganfield.

At Flournoy, a station on the O. V., near Morganfield, Ben Catlett, shot and killed Joe Johnson, both negroes. In a wrestling match Johnson had thrown Catlett, as well as others in the crowd. A fight ensued, Johnson started to leave, when Catlett intercepted him, drew a pistol and shot and killed Johnson. The murderer is now in jail at Morganfield and another hanging is probable.

Teachers' Association.

Every wide awake teacher should be at Marion Academy Nov. 7th, at 10 A. M., thoroughly prepared to take part in any of the discussions named in the programme, and especially those who have a well founded belief that "Our Institutes are failures," should be present and able to give a reason for the faith that is in them, and to say how our Institutes may be improved. Teachers, bring your problems in either routine work or government, and get light; jot down good ideas and give light. Somebody will tell how to keep the new Register—if any body knows how. The afternoon session will be of general interest and the presence of the good people of Marion or elsewhere will be appreciated. Trustees are by virtue of their office members. They should be present if for no other reason than to hear how teachers talk about trustees. Remember the day and hour.

Dr. Graham Speaks.

Dr. Graham, who was a member of the Constitutional Convention, attended the County Union at this place Tuesday. After the adjournment of the Union, the doctor made a speech to the public; it was not advertised and only a small crowd heard him. He discussed finances in colonial times, in Jackson's day, and on down to the present. He advocates the sub-treasury plan as the panacea for stringency in money matters. He said that he was not a third party man; that the order was not a political organization. They, as an order, wanted certain measures, and they must demand these things of their representatives, and when they were granted, "that ends our labors." We want money at the same rate of interest as the government charges the banker, that is what we want and this is what we demand. He said: When candidates come around, say to them, don't tell me what party you belong to but what are you for and what are you against. Don't discuss the tariff; the tariff we must have to raise to defray the enormous expenses of the government."

County Orders.

October 22. W. O. Woodall was sworn in as deputy assessor.

Struck Coal.

Coal was reached in No. 9 vein at a depth of 180 feet in the new shaft yesterday at noon. It was announced to the public by long and loud blowing of steam whistles and a continued boom of dynamite, and great was the excitement in the town and vicinity. The people rushed to the scene in every kind of vehicle in use here, and many did not take time to obtain a conveyance, but rushed on in crowds of two, five and ten people. Around the works was a large crowd, all eager to get a small lump of the first coal.

That Sturgis is destined to be a coal center second to none this side of Pennsylvania there is no longer a shadow of doubt. It is the very heart of the best coal in the South. Here are workable veins from three and a half to five and a half feet thick, aggregating about 21 feet. No. 9 at this point is a superior quality of coal to No. 9 as yet developed by any other point. It lies nearly level, never having been disturbed, and has only about 1 1/2 per cent of sulphur and cokes equal to the Connellsville coal.

The Sturgis Coal and Coke Company is perhaps the best equipped of any mines in the State. It will have a capacity of 1,000 tons of coal per day. They are preparing to build 100 coke ovens, and when it reaches its capacity will produce from 25 to 30 car loads of coal and coke per day, to be shipped South and West.

This coal field is inexhaustible. The company has secured the coal underlying several thousand acres of land, and the No. 9 vein alone underlying their possessions, will yield over 40,000,000 tons of coal, which will take 150 years to dig it out, and its value at 54 cents per ton, is $26,000,000.—Sturgis Enterprise.

We are requested to say that an agency for the Sturgis coal will be established at this place.

$200 REWARD.

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT. WHEREAS, It has been made known to me, by the Judge of the Crittenden County Court, that John M. Imboden stands charged in said county with the crime of murder, and is now a fugitive from justice going at large; and the said Judge having recommended that a reward be offered for the apprehension of said fugitive:

Now, therefore, I, John Young Brown, Governor of the Commonwealth aforesaid, do hereby offer a reward of TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS for the apprehension of John M. Imboden, and his delivery to the Jailer of Crittenden county.

[L. S.] In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the Commonwealth to be affixed. Done at Frankfort, the 15th day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, and in the one-hundredth year of the Commonwealth.

JOHN YOUNG BROWN, By the Governor.

Ladies, Attention.

You can buy Millinery Goods of all kinds, consisting of ladies hats, lace, ribbons, velvet and trimmings lower at M. Rochester & Co's, than at any other place in Marion, and besides they will give you a nice present with every dollar worth you buy from them. A large assortment of presents to select from. Don't forget the place.

M. Rochester & Co.

An Address.

We wish to know why it is that some people will continue to patronize a firm that has fleeced them out of hundreds of dollars by charging them too much for goods, when they can go to the Cheap John Store and for the cash, buy goods at least 25 per cent cheaper than they have been in the habit of paying. A trial is all we ask of you and is all that we require to convince you that we mean just what we say. We handle the best green and roasted coffees and the best granulated sugar, only. We will sell you 150 test coal oil for 12 cents per gallon and if it don't give a good light bring it back and get your money. We will sell you all wool undershirts and drawers for 45 cents each, which is much cheaper than elsewhere, is it not? We notice that several of our brother merchants have lowered their prices considerably, and we think that we are responsible for the decline, and question is, are you going to give us credit for the same and prove your sincerity by giving us your
